STEP BY STEP INSTRUCTIONS

Taking Treats Nicely

1. Pinch a treat firmly between your fingers so your dog can lick it, but can't take it if they nibble or use their teeth. Use treats that are easy to hold onto.

2. Hold the treat directly in front of your dog's mouth without releasing it. Looking away or closing your eyes can make it easier to notice the feel of the lick rather than trying to see it.

3. Wait for your dog to lick the treat. The moment you feel their tongue, bridge "Yes" and release the treat. With repetition, your dog should become less nibbley and more lickey.

4. If they bite or nibble: Don't quickly pull your hand away, as this can encourage more snatching. Turn your hand around and offer the back of it until they settle, then try again.
